

The tsuru being centered on the yumi is not for all yumi. The top tsuru loop can be centered on the upper plate at the nocking point and as it passes down the plate it can be as much as 1/8" or so to the RIGHT of center. Either position is equally correct. Likewise the strung tsuru can be centered on the width of the yumi at the grip or it can be off center to the right. Again both positions are equally correct.